Torre di San Martino, Panzano in Chianti

A 13th-century tower, standing tall among rolling hills designed by the geometries of their vineyards and rows of cypress trees, has been transformed into a luxurious retreat dedicated to those who dream of losing themselves in a contemplative dimension of beauty, silence and slowness. The magnificent isolation of the small rural hamlet is counterbalanced by the vibrancy of its surroundings, populated by travellers from all over the world, keen to enjoy the aesthetic and enogastronomic pleasures of an area preserving an authenticity characterised by its traditions and its residents' love for the territory. The renovation project, overseen in every detail by owner Federica Tison Pandolfini, respects the spirit of the location and reinterprets it in the name of lightness and brightness.
