The new Liberty and Liberty Ceramic vanity units with double washbasin enrich Devon&Devon's vanity unit collections with a proposal that flawlessly blends beauty and practicality, formal simplicity and fine materials, unique style and infinite customisation possibilities.

Minimalist yet unmistakable, their design, punctuated by contrasting profiles and an elegant support stand that accentuates their sinuosity, is a new, contemporary take on sophisticated Art Nouveau inspirations, making explicit reference to the timeless elegance of the furniture of Italian decorator Eugenio Quarti (1867-1929). Known as the "goldsmith of furniture makers" and winner of the Grand Prix at the 1900 Exposition Universelle in Paris, he was the creative mind behind the interior design of such unique spaces as the Grand Hotel in San Pellegrino Terme (1905) (one of the few Italian examples in early Art Deco style), Caffè Camparino (built in 1925 and still intact today), and Bar Zucca in Milan's Piazza Duomo, at the entrance to Galleria Vittorio Emanuele II. In the harmony of their forms, attention to detail, and refined materials that can be combined in different configurations, Liberty and Liberty Ceramic recall his light hand, his focus on functionality, and his amazing ability to blend artistic craftsmanship and mass production.

Liberty

Surprisingly capacious and available in Deep Black, Pure White, Cream, and Warm Grey, Liberty's lacquered wood body supports a top, front, and backsplash in marble (Calacatta Viola, Calacatta Oro, Bianco Carrara, or Nero Marquina) or in Granito Nero Assoluto, in which two white ceramic under countertop washbasins are set.

Liberty Ceramic

The minimalist, unmistakable body of Liberty Ceramic incorporates the Art Déco geometries of the iconic white ceramic Wide Blues double washbasin, concealing ample storage space inside for everything you need to take care of yourself.

Liberty Ceramic is available in Deep Black, Pure White, Cream and Warm Grey varnished wood, and also in a magnificent version in exquisite polished walnut which, with its amber hues and ever-changing grain, makes each piece of furniture an absolute one-off.
